Housing

Subsidized Housing

A subsidized housing unit is one in which a tenant pays approximately 30% of their adjusted income on rent and utilities. The management agent and/or Public Housing Authority calculate the tenant's rent amount. The Department of Housing and Urban Development then pays the difference between the tenant's rent contribution and the total rent that is paid to the building owner.

Low income housing tax credit properties must provide affordable rent to tenants who qualify based on income guidelines. For more information about a particular building and their corresponding income guidelines, rents, and any other qualifications, please contact the management company directly.

Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening

Ladies First is a program that helps eligible Alaskans get free breast and cervical health screenings. Alaskans aged 21 to 64 who meet income guidelines, who do not have insurance, who cannot meet their insurance deductible, or whose insurance does not pay for breast and cervical health screenings may qualify. The following health care providers are part of the Ladies First program.
