Funding for this conference is generously provided by the State of Alaska- Division of Behavioral Health, with registration fees waived for all participants. There is no virtual attendance option at this time.

To better equip behavioral health and social service providers across Alaska, this conference will feature both Alaskan and national experts sharing the latest research and advances in the science of traumatic stress, trauma-informed systems, and clinical interventions for complex trauma in children and adults.

JUDITH A. COHEN, M.D.

Judith A. Cohen is a Board Certified Child & Adolescent Psychiatrist, Medical Director of the Allegheny General Hospital Center for Traumatic Stress in Children & Adolescents, and Professor of Psychiatry at Drexel University College of Medicine in Pittsburgh, PA. With Tony Mannarino, Ph.D. and Esther Deblinger, Ph.D., Dr. Cohen developed and tested Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT), an evidence-based treatment for traumatized children, and has received more than two dozen grants related to the assessment and treatment of child maltreatment and trauma. Dr. Cohen is past Co-Chair of the American Academy of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry's Child Maltreatment and Violence Committee, past member of its journal editorial board, first author of its PTSD practice parameters, and a recipient of its Rieger Award for Scientific Achievement. She has served on the Boards of Directors of the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies and the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children, and as Co-Chair of the National Child Traumatic Stress Network's Child Sexual Abuse and Child Traumatic Grief Committees. She is a consultant to Sesame Workshop and the Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors, and maintains an active practice focused on disseminating evidence-based treatment for traumatized children and adolescents.

Dr. Mannarino is the Director of the Center for Traumatic Stress in Children and Adolescents and Chair, Psychiatry and Behavioral Health Institute, Allegheny Health Network, Pittsburgh, PA. He is also Professor of Psychiatry at the Drexel University College of Medicine. Dr. Mannarino has been a leader in the field of child traumatic stress for the past 30 years. He has been awarded numerous federal grants from the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect and the National Institute of Mental Health to investigate the clinical course of traumatic stress symptoms in children and to develop effective treatment approaches for traumatized children and their families. Dr. Mannarino has received many honors for his work, including the Betty Elmer Outstanding Professional Award, the Most Outstanding Article Award for papers published in the journal Child Maltreatment given by the American Professional Society on the Abuse of Children (APSAC), the Model Program Award from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration for "Cognitive Behavioral Therapy for Child Traumatic Stress", and the Legacy Award from the Greater Pittsburgh Psychological Association. Dr. Mannarino has completed two-year terms as the President of APSAC and the President of the Section on Child Maltreatment, Division of Child and Family Policy and Practice, American Psychological Association. He is one of the developers of Trauma-Focused Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT).
